Dear Lahib:

I have just received a call from my friend Decherd Turner, Head Librarian at the Bridwell Library here at SMU, and he has personally searched the Steindorff journals for you and reports the following: there are five notebooks dealing with Giza, three of them full. They date 1905, 1909, and 1910 and include drawings and text. Altogether he estimates they total 400 pages. He will have to charge 10¢ a page to copy them, therefore, if you want them all copied please ask the library there to send him a check for $ 40.00 (or I am sure he will accept a letter saying they will cover the cost of the xerox, and to bill them when it is done). I would have gone ahead and paid for it myself, but it is more than I can afford and besides I was not sure you wanted all of the stuff copied.

Hope this helps you get what you need. Incidentally, I may be away from town for the next few weeks, so if there is a rush, it might be best to contact Decherd directly.

Take care, good friend. Hope to see you soon.

As ever,

Fred
